

ABSTRACT

5

Disclosed is a method for fabricating a mold. The mold is used for protective caps which will be applied to a wafer. The method comprises the steps of fabricating first and second cooperating mold halves from a semiconductor material using lithography. The first half and second half, when brought together define mold cavities for the wafer scale protective caps.

10